Bijak duit, kebal scam

A phone-sim game where students live one university semester of money decisions, with scams as the high-stakes events.

THE PROBLEM

Young Malaysians can't tell a real return from a fake one

RM1.46b

lost to fake investment scams in 2025

The costliest scam type, three years running

Home Ministry via The Sun [VERIFY]

19-30

below the national average

in BNM's financial literacy index

BNM, Sasana Symposium 2025 [VERIFY]

18.6%

of EPF members aged 18-30

have the basic savings for their age

MOF reply, Aug 2025 [VERIFY]

First-year students manage PTPTN or scholarship money and a first bank account alone, and syndicates offer them RM1,000-2,000 to "rent" that account.

OUR SOLUTION

One semester, inside a pretend phone

Week 0

Split the budget

Needs, wants, savings; the emergency fund decides how tempting later offers feel

Weeks 1-12

Live the money moments

First pay, hostel fees, a friend's unit trust, buy-now-pay-later

High stakes

Face real scam tactics

Job scams, mule accounts, fake crypto, fake police calls, all fictional brands

Every day

Keep it fresh

2-minute Cek Harian with a streak; Mod Kelas battles for orientation week

The Kalkulator turns every promise into maths: 30% a week is millions of percent a year, so it can't be real.

WHY IT'S DIFFERENT

Money skills and scam immunity, learned together

	Typical awareness talk	Money apps / games	Celik
Student life (PTPTN, hostel, first pay)	Generic	Generic adult life	Built for it
Real vs fake investment, side by side	-	Rarely	Same decision twice, with the maths
Safe to fail, then retry	-	Sometimes	Every scenario
Comes back after day 1	One-off	Streaks	Daily booster + orientation battles
Works offline, collects nothing	-	Usually online	Yes

Honest limit

[one limitation from results.md]

Game-based inoculation fades without boosters (Maertens et al.), which is why Cek Harian exists.
